

STATINTL

7 April 1965

I accept your chastisement and have accordingly learned a lesson with regard to visiting your organization, and in the future will strongly suggest that you be present when I am invited to visit Mr. Art L's office in the event we are to discuss your project.

As you know, the principal purpose of my visit was to present to Mr. L. a duplicate copy of the photographs of the Moon which we processed for the Jet Propulsion Labs. Enclosed is a copy of the press release. It was very exciting and I do hope you get an opportunity to see these pictures.

I met Col. Gordon S. He and John C. are making a tour of West Coast companies and intend to visit here sometime near the end of April. We will brief him at that time on our activities, and I would appreciate any pre-briefing you could give them before they come out here.

Regarding the Direct Image Viewer, Mr. Art L. appears to be extremely excited about its prospects; and I wondered about adapting the viewer for stereo presentations. He also stated that the breadboard you have in the lab certainly demonstrates the potential of the idea, which he feels is far greater than the particular applications for your organization. It was then that we discussed the patents that [redacted] and I have and the patent that Dick S. is pursuing. I received Art's permission to talk to Dick regarding the commercial applications of Dick's patent, which I did on Monday morning. STATINTL

I also discussed with Art the fact that other people in other organizations within your company, who he knows, have a great interest in improving pilots' viewfinders and that we would like to be able to talk to these people regarding the possibility of adapting the principles of the viewer to a pilot's viewfinder. He felt that since these people are in the community, there is no problem.

I briefed Art, Bill M., Col. S., and John C. regarding some of the new products we have developed in the rapid access processing field and have enclosed a new product announcement booklet for your information.

Having once been a project officer for the government, I appreciate your position and understand your feelings in this matter. Please accept my apologies and my assurance that this will not happen again.

We are looking forward to you and Dick visiting with grating in hand, since it will be a very exciting time for all of us to STATINTL see the efforts bear fruit.
